Higher Assessments Do Not Mean Higher Tax-- Millage Has to Drop

Yesterday we were discussing the unfairness of trying to make an issue of the property reassessment program in a county election campaign when as a matter of fact your county officials are tied and bound by state law. Here is the language of the basic law, Act 153 of 1955:

"All duties imposed by this Act on all state and county officials are hereby declared to be mandatory, and any officer who neglects, fails or refuses to perform any such duty shall be subject to removal from office and liable on his official bond for such neglect, failure or refusal."

The state government, tiring of the business of collecting taxes which local government used to help out on, enacted the 1955 law to compel the counties to put their assessing house in order — and the state confirmed its position again in 1957 by stiffening the penalties with Act 304.

Therefore, as we told you on this page yesterday, your county officials have to bring the level of property assessments up to 18 per cent of market value (the level on August 1 was 16.71) by December 15 or lose 7.2 per cent of all state-aid money coming into Hempstead county — a potential loss for the city and county governments and the school districts (principally the schools) of $50,054 a year.

Now as for the property-owners, it is only natural that some of them should fear rigid enforcement of an honest assessing system. Arkansas used to have a constitutional limit of 18 mills for school taxes. That ceiling was abolished by Amendment 40, which this newspaper fought all the way — but the people following bad advice from the political school crowd voted it into the constitution in 1948.

Therefore it is understandable today that property interests are slow to declare the full extent of their holdings — they simply fear the reassessment program will be used to jack up the total dollar tax because of today's generally high millage rate.

But this newspaper has already pledged the public to see to it that as assessments are increased the millage rate is reduced. We gave proof of that pledge a year ago when we denounced — and the people defeated — an attempt to increase the Hope school millage from .35 to .40. It went down two to one. And as the reassessment program advances the millage rate will be cut — if not voluntarily, then by the simple process of electing school directors pledged to make the cut.

A year ago this writer made the millage-cut suggestion to a reassessment meeting at the courthouse, and specifically to W. H. Etter of Washington — whose school district was then debating whether to go along with the reform program, which it did.

Today my information is that the school taxing units are in agreement to cut back the millage rate after covering present operating costs.

What this means is, the present tax bill in dollars will be stabilized — and any important increase in tax dollars will have to be submitted to the voters in future elections on the millage rate.

There is one further matter which has been criticized, but which hardly needs explanation. Some people have objected to their property being personally inspected in behalf of the reassessment program. Property inspection is stipulated by law in all assessment programs everywhere. How else can you be sure that all citizens are being treated alike?

Probers Told Payoff to Hoffa Averted Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former Detroit laundry operator swore today that payoffs he understood would go to Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa averted a threatened strike in 1949.

William H. Miller told the Senate Rackets Investigation Committee he personally turned over $450 to an official of an organization of laundry firms. He said it was his understanding this would go to Hoffa as the price of labor peace in the Detroit laundry industry.

Hoffa was Midwest boss of the union at that time.

Hoffa was a witness today before the Senate committee, and had been asked to step aside while Miller testified.

Hoffa, who had just denied much recollection of anything having to do with the negotiations in the 1949 labor dispute, sat silently at the witness table in the big, crowded hearing room as Miller testified.

Miller, who said he now runs a hotel and restaurant at Water-smet, Mich., said he was in the laundry business in 1949.

Miller said he cannot of his own knowledge swear that any of the money ever did go to Hoffa.

Miller said there had been a meeting of negotiators for the laundry owners group with a man he understood to be Hoffa.

He said he later received a report that a contract could be signed with the payment of $90 per truck to Hoffa by those having labor trouble with the Teamsters union at the time.

Miller said he did not know whether officials of other laundries also paid.

He said his $450 was paid over a period of three years.

When Hoffa took the witness chair, he was told he was going to be questioned at length about his alleged association with gangsters.

Hoffa, just sworn to tell the truth, sat poker faced, occasionally mopping his hands and lips with a handkerchief, as Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) of the Rackets Investigating Committee addressed him.

McClellan, reading from a prepared statement, said the committee's record is replete with testimony linking Hoffa's name with the underworld. He said Hoffa will be questioned extensively — possibly over a period of weeks on and off — about this.

Asked by reporters whether he cared to discuss the torture-burning in Michigan of one of his aides, Frank Klerdorf, Hoffa replied:

"I have no comment whatsoever about anything."

He was accompanied by Edward Bennett Williams, general counsel of the union; George S. Fitzgerald, a Detroit lawyer; and David Previant, Milwaukee attorney.

McClellan, in his statement at the opening of the hearings, said Hoffa on his last appearance before the committee in August 1957 "suffered seriously from a lack of memory and thus avoided answering many questions."

"It is to be hoped," McClellan said with heavy sarcasm, "his memory has improved."

McClellan said an alliance between Hoffa and the underworld, if it exists, "places a dangerous force at the jugular vein of America."

AEA Will Fight to Keep Sales Tax Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A spokesman for the Arkansas Educational Assn. says his group and several other organizations will wage a campaign aimed at keeping the controversial one per cent state sales tax increase.

Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the AEA, said yesterday that he does not believe voters will reject the sales tax when it comes up for approval in the November general election.

However, he conceded that educational groups would have to battle for its retention.

The sales tax was raised by the 1957 Legislature as part of a program designed to obtain an extra 22 million dollars in revenue. The severance tax also was increased and the base of the state income tax was broadened.

A large part of the additional revenue was channeled into salary increases for class room teachers. It has been estimated that the sales tax increase brings in about 15 million dollars a year.

Gov. Orval Faubus, who supported the tax increase program, probably will be asked to lend his backing to the drive for keeping the sales tax boost.

Rozzell predicted that the AEA would be joined in the campaign by the Governor's Advisory Committee on Education, the Arkansas Board of Education, the Arkansas Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Arkansas School Board Assn.

He said he discussed the drive with Lee Roy Beasley of El Dorado, head of GACE, and that the advisory group probably would be the key organization in the planned campaign.

Rozzell added that the first move likely would be the establishment of a steering committee to co-ordinate campaign work.

The sales tax increase was referred to a public vote through the efforts of a movement sparked by Alex Washburn, publisher of the Hope Star. Washburn contended that the increase was not essential and that southwest Arkansas would be hurt by it because adjacent Texas has no sales tax.

Police Told to Crack Down on Noisy Scooters

The City Board of Directors last night instructed Police to start cracking down on persons operating unlicensed motor scooters and mopeds. It's already the law that all vehicles must be properly licensed.

Chief of Police Jack Brown said this morning that a reasonable length of time will be given for youngsters with scooters and motor bikes and auto owners to properly muffle their vehicles. Then we will start taking action, he said.

The Mayor and City Clerk were authorized to negotiate with a local bank for the loan of $8,000 to relay portions of sewer lines on South Walnut and South Main Streets. Some 1,800 feet of line will have to be installed. Part of this line runs across private property and covers during the past few years have caused considerable trouble. The City plans to relay the lines in the streets.

A resolution was passed authorizing the City Planning Board to negotiate for federal aid in planning here. The request, considered formally, is made through the University of Arkansas which is the state planning agency.

The first phase of planning which makes surveys, studies, maps, etc. will cost approximately $3,000. The second phase, costing about $4,500, gives the board general plans, such as zoning, analysis of facilities and other data with the future in view. The third phase, estimated cost $4,000, sets up subdivision regulations and gives detailed plans for future development. The entire plan costing an estimated $12,000 could be started as early as October 1. Under the existing system the federal government will finance about half of the entire cost.

In other action the group okayed execution of a lease with a local dance club a city-owned building Municipal Airport and re-appointed Mike Kelly to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Integration Ruling by Fall School Term

By ALLEN MERRITT

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Uncharted legal territory will be explored by the Eighth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in studying suspension of racial integration at Little Rock's Central High School.

The seven-judge court is expected to make a decision before the fall school term begins at Little Rock.

An issue is a June 21 order by U. S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley of Arkansas, granting a 2½-year cooling off period at the school where integration was enforced with federal troops during the last school year. The order was appealed by the Nation at Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The big question before the Appeals Court is whether such a delay is legally permissible under the Supreme Court's order that segregation in public schools be ended with "all deliberate speed." The question has not been considered previously.

A sharp conflict of views on the legal questions involved was underlined in oral arguments during a hearing yesterday, after which the court took the case under advisement.

Attorneys for the Little Rock School Board, which asked for the suspension, pleaded that it is essential to give relief from unrest and disciplinary problems at the school.

"We ask for patience and a brief respite," said Richard C. Butler of Little Rock, one of the board's attorneys.

Negro attorneys argued that approval of the suspension order would represent a surrender to mob violence.

"You will be creating a Frankenstein monster that will come back to haunt you," said Wiley A. Branton of Pine Bluff, Ark.

Thurgood Marshall, chief attorney for the NAACP, said the school board was derelict in that it failed to take proper disciplinary measures against trouble-making white students.

But Butler maintained the school board, which drew up the Little Rock plan of gradual integration, made a conscientious effort to comply with the Supreme Court decision.

A. F. House, another Little Rock attorney for the board, accused the Eisenhower administration of failing to give the board needed help.

Farm Loans in Co. Total $145,961

Farm families in Hempstead County received Farmers Home Administration loans totaling $145,961 in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1958, the agency's county supervisor, W. M. Sparks, reported this week. Borrowers repaid $128,161 during the year.

Loans for farm operations, including feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, equipment and other items totaled $59,400. Credit to buy, improve or enlarge farms or refinancing existing farm debts accounted for $84,960.

Loans to farm owners to build or repair farm houses or other essential farm construction added up to $14,300. Soil and water conservation loans came to $4,800, and farmers borrowed $3,085 to meet emergency needs due to unfavorable weather conditions.

Repayments were made mainly out of income received from beef cattle, dairy cattle and dairy products, cotton and soybeans.

Among the results the farmers have obtained with loans for better farming, Mr. Sparks said, are improved dairy herds, better crop yields, good pastures, and more modern equipment. The recently broadened farm housing loan program is helping many farmers plan and develop better housing and farm building facilities.

Mr. Sparks said many local farmers have had and repaid loans in the past several years, and are now operating sound farming enterprises and getting all their credit needs through local banks and other lenders.

Besides making and servicing loans, the county supervisor visits borrowers' farms throughout the year to help with farm management problems. Mr. Sparks estimated he made 225 farm visits during the year and that farmers made 300 calls at his office to apply for loans or discuss their farm and credit situations.

Banks or other lenders may advance the loan funds for farm purchase or improvement or the agency may make these loans directly from funds appropriated by Congress. All other types of loans are direct Government loans.

Would Force U. S. Troops to Leave Lebanon

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet government today demanded an extraordinary session of the United Nations General Assembly.

The demand was advanced by Soviet Premier Khrushchev in a letter replying to President Eisenhower's note of Aug. 1. Eisenhower suggested that the U. N. Security Council arrange for a summit meeting on the Middle East.

A summary of the Khrushchev response was distributed tonight by the Soviet news agency Tass shortly after U. S. Ambassador J. W. Thompson Jr., and his British and French colleagues were called to the Foreign Ministry in Moscow to receive copies of notes to their respective governments.

Khrushchev said he was sorry neither President Eisenhower nor British Prime Minister Macmillan had accepted his original proposal for a five-power summit conference with U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld participating.

Khrushchev said an extraordinary session of the General Assembly should consider "the question of the withdrawal of U. S. troops from Lebanon and British troops from Jordan."

The regular annual session of the Assembly is scheduled to begin in New York Sept. 16.

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev tonight turned away from the idea of a summit meeting on the Middle East. He demanded instead that the U. N. General Assembly of "great and small powers" meet in extraordinary session.

Khrushchev in a 10-page communication to President Eisenhower, rejected the idea of a summit meeting in the United Nations Security Council.

He said the Council "under pressure from the United States has actually become a kind of committee consisting of members of countries which are members of the NATO, Baghdad, and SEATO pacts and in which the place of the legitimate representative of the great Chinese People's Republic is vacant."

Two Cotton Meets Set Wednesday

To permit observation and discussion in cotton insect control field meetings will be conducted Wednesday, August 6. Extension Entomologist Grover C. Dowell will assist Agricultural Extension Agents Oliver L. Adams and Wade Benefield with the farm study meetings being held at the near peak of first brood weevil and an expected boll worm hatch.

The first meeting will be held at 10 Wednesday morning in the Loys Hampton cotton field on the Roulton farm about five miles north of the Hope postoffice. The second meeting will be held at the Oakhaven road to the left of the Store. This has received two applications of insecticide to date. Growers may note different levels of nitrogen applications as it effects cotton development.

The second meeting will be held at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon at the Herman W. Worthing and Son farm about 1½ miles southeast of Ozan to the left of the west patrol road. This cotton has received three applications of insecticide to date. Producers will have the opportunity to observe on the Worthing farm the progress of three levels of cotton fertilizer application in a cooperative demonstration with the Arkansas Planting Research Station and a 10-acre planting of Row's new quicker maturing cotton variety.

If there were a reward for finding fault there would be a lot more millage.

America's First Attempt to Put Up a Lunar Satellite Could Come Next Week

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Roy W. Johnson, boss of the nation's moon rocket program, indicated today that the first attempt to put up a lunar satellite could come as early as next week.

Johnson said a reporter that the Defense Department hopes to decide this week on the date.

The director of the department's Advanced Research Projects Agency added that the date would be decided upon about five days in advance of the actual launching attempt.

This would conform closely with estimates of persons close to the lunar probe program that the earliest launching date under consideration was Aug. 15, and that the most likely dates would be Aug. 17-19.

A major goal of the attempt is to get pictures of the hidden side of the moon — not to hit the moon itself.

Johnson also disclosed for the first time that the lunar satellite probably would be cylindrical in shape. He said that with its instruments it would weigh 50 to 60 pounds.

He explained that several lunar satellites have been built at the Naval Test Center, Inverness, Calif., of various shapes and designs — and we'll take one off the shelf.

The launching rocket will consist of a Thor intermediate range ballistic missile, and the second and third stages of the Vanguard satellite rocket. The third stage, however, is of a hitherto untried solid propellant design, more powerful than the third stages of the Vanguard rockets fired to date.

The satellite, housed in the nose of the final stage, will contain a television-type scanning device with a gyroscope to keep it aimed constantly at the moon.

Johnson said that within six minutes after the launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla., two should know whether all the stages have fired successfully.

Within 90 minutes we will

Famous 'Ten Commandments' Coming Here

The greatest cast ever assembled for a motion picture portrays the revered and colorful figures of the eternally dramatic story of Exodus in Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Ten Commandments." The monumental dramatization of the life of Moses, which opens a local engagement Aug. 20 at the Dixie Drive Theatre, re-creates a score of Biblical personages that are beloved by Christian, Jew and Moslem, and the utmost care went into the vital problem of casting.

The key roles of Moses and his royal opponent Pharaoh are played respectively by Charlton Heston and Yul Brynner. To Heston for the qualities of sincerity and spiritual DeMille saw in him, for his proven dramatic ability and because he had the enormous physical stamina required of an actor who actually had to follow in Moses' footsteps through the deserts of the Sinai Peninsula and along the sun-baked slopes of Mount Sinai; and to Brynner for his natural aura of power and strong physical appeal.

The complicated role of the seductive Thorne Princess Nefertiti, who loves Moses but when rejected turns against him, went to one of the screen's top dramatic actresses, Anne Baxter; Edward G. Robinson is Pharaoh, the traitorous slave overseer; Yvonne De Carlo is Sophera, Moses' faithful wife; Debra Paget is the gentle water girl, Lilia; and John Derek portrays Joshua, Moses' trusted lieutenant throughout the Exodus.

Starring also are top-liners Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nina Foch, Martha Scott, Judith Anderson and Vincent Price. "Supporting roles are taken by a dozen more famous performers and the number of extras in the tremendous bandage-in-Egypt, Exodus and Golden Calf orgy scenes tops 25,000, the greatest number in the history of motion pictures.

Twin Barriers Against Race Integration

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Racial integration of public schools in the South is running up against the twin barriers of judicial delay and legislative defiance.

A court determination of how long integration can be delayed is in the making at St. Louis only one level below the nation's highest court. There the seven-judge 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals is considering the legality of a 2½-year suspension of integration at one of the focal points of the whole, far-flung integration dispute—Little Rock's Central High School. A ruling is expected before the schools open in the fall.

A still longer delay of seven years was granted by a U.S. district court judge in bringing the races together at schools in Virginia's Prince Edward County, which figured in the Supreme Court's 1954 integration ruling. State officials hailed the delay as realistic and gratifying, while attorneys for Negro children seeking admission to white schools wondered whether to appeal.

Enactment of segregation laws has continued apace in the South. The Southern School News, published by the Southern Education Reporting Service, disclosed today in Nashville, Tenn., that there have been 196 such enactments since the 1954 integration decree.

Seven states have resolved by legislation to close their public schools if integration is forced upon them. Louisiana, Mississippi and Virginia passed such laws

If these laws are carried out, any integration victory in federal courts might prove a hollow one. Another civil war very well could be unleashed and a serious setback to public schooling.

Arkansas, Florida, Texas and Tennessee also have put new segregation laws of various types on the books.

The Southern School News reported that 777 Southern school districts have been desegregated. Only roughly three times this number—2,322—it said, remain segregated in Southern and border states.

lie is occupied by a political Khrushchev's abrupt changes from previous proposals for a summit conference with the West following his sudden visit to Peking for discussions with Mao Tse-tung, the Red Chinese leader.

The reply did not immediately indicate if Khrushchev himself would attend an Assembly meeting.

The Assembly is due to open its regular fall session in New York Sept. 16. Both the United States and the Soviet Union proposed in the Security Council recently that the Assembly be called into session immediately, but nothing came of the idea.

The Khrushchev reply, delivered to U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Jr., was a response to the Aug. 1 note in which President Eisenhower told his willingness to attend a summit meeting in the U. N. Security Council. Eisenhower expressed hope that Khrushchev would be there too, on a suggested Aug. 18 meeting date.

Khrushchev spoke in his reply of the idea of holding a summit session eventually. He ended his letter with the hope President Eisenhower would support the call for a meeting of the General Assembly "and thus take the first steps for the eventual holding of a summit conference."

The Assembly includes representatives from all 81 countries belonging to the United Nations. The Security Council has delegates from only 11 countries including the 5 permanent members—United States, Soviet Union, Britain, France and Nationalist China.

Okays Hike in Assessment of Utilities

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A resolution brooding assessments on utilities was approved by the Arkansas Public Service Commission yesterday. Purpose of the increase is to allow the PSC to pay a long standing debt to the state treasury.

The commission said it would charge utilities one-fourth of one percent of their annual gross revenues. At this rate it would require about two years to settle the debt.

Assessments amount to about $2.50 for each $1,000 in gross revenue and this year are expected to produce a total of some $300,000, a PSC spokesman said. The assessments are due by Aug. 31.

The commission has been assessing utilities at a rate of about $1.00 to $2.00 on each $1,000. State law provides that the PSC can assess utilities as much as one per cent of their annual gross revenues—about $4.00 per $1,000—for maintaining and operating the commission.

Part of the $300,000 derived from the increased assessments will go to pay the debt to the treasury and the remainder will be used for PSC operations.

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The Army said today it planned no disciplinary action against a Fort Chaffee sergeant who ordered trainees to do pushups on a hot asphalt pavement.

Some of the recruits suffered burned hands as a result of the incident.

The information office at Fort Chaffee said Sgt. Roy C. Cobb of Atlanta, Ga., who ordered the pushups as a disciplinary measure, had no reason to believe the exercise would be injurious to the trainees.

The recruits did 10 pushups. Thirty-one of the men sustained burned hands. Two of them, Donald R. Harbert, 19, of Ripley, Tenn., and Don Weeks, 22, of Harrisburg, Ark., were hospitalized with burns but suffered no permanent injury the report said.

An investigation of the July 26 incident was conducted by the army and Brig. Gen. William C. Bullock, post commander, said it was determined that Sgt. Cobb ordered the pushups with no malicious intent and participated in them himself.

The report said it was determined "that neither Sgt. Cobb nor anyone else could have known beforehand that the pavement on the basketball court was as hot as it was." The temperature was 82 degrees and it was "a relatively mild summer day."

The general said for years the basketball court has been the normal place for all formations in the battery area.

The sergeant ordered the pushups to restore order in the ranks when the recruits became unruly during a drill.

"This measure is considered reasonable under the circumstances since pushups are a normal part of the physical training given to trainees throughout the service," the investigation report said.

Sgt. Cobb was placed under barracks arrest while the investigation was being conducted. A number of the recruits spoke in his defense.

1,000 More Troops Land in Lebanon

By EDWIN SHANKE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—One thousand more U.S. troops arrived in Lebanon today. An American military spokesman said this completed the movement of troops assigned here.

There are now more than 14,000 U.S. soldiers and Marines here. The troops debarking from the transport, Gen. Geiger, included a hospital unit, signals and signals photos units and a graves registration team.

Gen. Faud Shehab, Lebanon's army chief who was elected president of the nation last week as a compromise in a three-month rebellion, declared Monday withdrawal of U. S. troops was far from among the national aims.

But President Camille Chamoun indicated his determination to keep the troops here until Sept. 23.

In his first pronouncement since he was elected last Thursday, Shehab indicated he intends to follow a policy of neutrality toward the big powers, friendship with Arab neighbors and unity and stability in Lebanon.

'Human Torch' Blames Union Business

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — New mystery piled up today in the human-torch burning of an ex-convict business agent for the Teamsters Union. His ex-convict uncle, who swore revenge, has disappeared.

Herman Kierdorf, 63, was missing and sought on a warrant charging him with possessing a slender for a pistol.

Herman had both sworn revenge for his nephew's burning and reported receiving a telephone threat of: "You'll be next."

Herman's nephew, Frank Kierdorf, 56, lay near death at a Pontiac hospital, his body burned nearly from head to foot.

Frank told authorities two gunmen he didn't know made a human torch of him Monday and he was positive the torture-burn was in some way connected with union business. Frank was tossed from a car to the hospital grounds.

Herman disappeared Monday night after persuading Frank to gasp out his pain-racked story. County Prosecutor Frederick Ziem said a briefcase Herman Kierdorf left at a neighbor's home contained a German pistol with a home-made silencer.

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — An ex-convict business agent for the Teamsters blamed union business today for his torture-burn by two unknown gunmen. His ex-convict uncle, a former Teamsters official, swore revenge.

Frank Kierdorf, 56, his stocky, muscular body charred almost from head to foot, said he was lured from his home and driven to a lonely woods. There, he said, captors poured an inflammable liquid on him and lighted it early Monday.

Through swollen, blackened lips, he told George T. Taylor, assistant Oakland County prosecutor, that he didn't know who the men were or why they did it. But he said he was positive the burning was connected with union business.

He said the two men came to his house in nearby Flint late Sunday night and asked him to go with them on some union organizing business. They pulled a gun when they got him in their car, took him to the woods, burned him and then dumped him half dead in front of a Pontiac hospital, he said.

An uncle and ex-convict, Herman Kierdorf, 63, who only last week quit a Teamsters union job, said an anonymous telephone caller had threatened him with a similar fate.

He vowed to seek vengeance for the burning of his nephew. "I don't have any idea who did it, but I'm going to find out," he said.

Doctors said it was amazing Frank Kierdorf still was alive. He had been burned over 85 per cent of his body. His arms, chest and legs were amass of raw, black blisters. His hair had been burned off and his face was puffed twice its normal size.

A son, Frank Jr., 30, who identified his father, said fearfully: "When you play rough, you get hurt sometimes."

Frank Kierdorf was business agent for Teamsters Local 332 at Flint. His uncle was business agent for the Teamsters Joint Council 22 in Detroit and was an aide of Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa.

Both Kierdorfs had been called as witnesses before the Senate Rackets Committee in connection with its investigation of the union.

Frank was called last November. At that time he was accused by the committee of selling out union members by taking payoffs to call off strikes and of shaking down employers by threatening to picket them unless they used special labor counseling services. The committee sought to link these services with Kierdorf.

Herman Kierdorf was questioned last Friday about alleged shakedowns in the Detroit industrial laundry business.

Both men repeatedly invoked the Fifth Amendment to avoid answering committee questions. After last week's hearings Herman Kierdorf announced he had quit his Teamster job.

Both Kierdorfs had served prison terms for armed robbery.

Robert J. Kenney, committee counsel, said Kierdorf's statement that he believed the attack was connected with union business threw the case clearly within the committee's jurisdiction. He promised an investigation.

Gradually the rope is turning itself into a bib and drawing of itself up around the neck. A hint of what's to come for fall appears in these designs by Coro. Pendant pin in heraldic design is worn here (left) suspended from a 90-inch gold metal chain. The pin is a white enamel maltese cross set with gold-flecked stones. Bibs and ropes in pearl and crystal are worn together (center) in massed effect. They are a combination of united pearls, matched crystals and bugle beads and are actually two 60-inch ropes and a 30-inch rope. Beautiful bib (right) is made up of twenty strands of chalk white bugle beads for wear with a high-necked sheath or a widely-scooped neckline. All of the costume jewelry shown here is moderately priced. All of it is intended to dramatize the simple and basic dress.

MOST HAPPY FELLA — One of many happy farmers in America's boom-crop grain belt is C. R. Berry, who grows wheat near Thompson, Mo., and he's happier than most. That's because his wheat made more than 60 bushels to the acre on a government-measured 38-acre field. Yield for the field, weighed at the Missouri Farmers Association elevator at Mexico, Mo., was 2,284 bushels. Berry and his two sons have 130 acres in wheat this year.

DOROTHY DIX

Veteran Husband's Old Enough to Have Sense

Dear Dorothy Dix:

After 24 years of happy marriage, somehow I got tangled up with another woman. I love my wife and we've been very happy but she was away for a short time and this other girl worked very hard to get me, and I fell. I have no intention of leaving my wife and children, and even if I asked for a divorce I know my wife wouldn't consent to one. I feel I have some responsibility to the other woman but what can I do to show her she has no right to me? What should she expect? Peter P.

Dear Peter:

I guess it was ever thus. A man gets himself into the "damned mess, then waits for some woman to get him out of it. He can face fire, flood, famine or war but the thought of walking unbravely to a mere woman and saying, "What we're doing is wrong, I'm through," turns him to melting ice cream. Guess the one thought, Peter, the "other woman" won't take the initiative in ending this thing. She would have to get you apparently she doesn't have to work to keep you. Your own inertia helps her there. Treat yourself to a backbone pill and prepare to put your principles on the line where they are not needed. You know right from wrong, so does the other woman. You owe her nothing and she expects what she can expect. You have no responsibility to her. So get over the heroics and settle down to the business of telling her that this is where she gets off.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I've been married for six years and have a little girl who is four years old. Two weeks ago I met a man and fell desperately in love with him. He feels the same way about me. When I told my husband he said I could leave if I wanted to but the only way I get my child would be over a dead body. Don't you think he's selfish?

Dear Alberta:

Selfish? To refuse to hand in child over to a couple of misers? Besides, you know how firmly

Two Are Given 5 Year Sentences

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two Fort Smith men received 5-year prison terms in U. S. District Court yesterday on charges of passing counterfeit money.

Another man was fined $10,000 on a charge of income tax evasion. Federal Judge Harry J. Lemley presided.

James M. Mullen, 33, pleaded guilty to five counts of passing bogus $20 bills and William Earl Smith, 30, pleaded guilty to three counts.

The two men and Mullen's wife Mary were arrested May 10 and 11 after counterfeit $20 bills showed up at Little Rock, The Secret Serice Office here said about 50 bogus bills were turned in.

Mrs. Mullen, also charged with possessing and passing counterfeit money, still is in Pulaski County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

James B. Murphy, formerly of North Little Rock and now a resident of Sarasota, Fla., pleaded guilty to evading payment of $20,481 in federal income taxes. He was fined $10,000 for evading payment of $8,916 in a joint return filed for himself and his wife for 1953 and was placed on probation for three years on three other counts concerning tax returns for 1954 and 1955.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My husband and I were married six months when a young girl walked into the house, called my husband "Daddy" and flung herself into his arms. I almost fainted as I had never heard of his daughter before. Then the truth came out. He had been married and divorced years ago, and hadn't seen or heard from his wife since the divorce. Now his daughter wants to work in the city and visit her father. I refuse to let him see her. Am I taking the right attitude? B. G.

Dear Mrs. B. G.:

You are undoubtedly being very human in your approach but apparently you aren't happy with it. Suppose you try a more charitable angle. Father and daughter have found each other after a long time, during which the girl probably didn't know where her father was. Couldn't you share his affection with her and give her a warm welcome? I guarantee the change of attitude will make everyone happy — most of all, you.

The loss, I'm afraid, is a permanent one. Love and respect cannot be regulated. You'll have to face the fact that your fiance is no longer interested in marriage if he ever was. He's undoubtedly a small loss. Use more

Formosa Gets a New Super Sabre

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The American command in Formosa today announced that F100D Super Sabres have been deployed here but denied they were sent in answer to rising clamor for late-model planes for Chiang Kai-shek's air force.

An announcement said American pilots flew the planes to this island from the Philippines for routine training, just as they have in the past.

A U. S. spokesman said that the arrival of the Super Sabres is not linked with a clash over the Formosa Strait July 29 in which Communist jets, said to have been modern MIGs, shot down two Nationalist Thunderjets.

TRIESTE (AP) — At least six Catholic pilgrims were reported today to have drowned off the Yugoslav port of Zara when a crowded boat capsized, plunging 40 persons into the Adriatic.

The boat was bringing 40 Yugoslav pilgrims back to the mainland from a trip to a Franciscan monastery on the Adriatic island of Visovac.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Federal Dist. Judge Sterling Hutcheson today ordered Prince Edward County, Va., schools desegregated by September 1958 and that immediate steps toward a plan for such desegregation be undertaken.

Judge Hutcheson said in an opinion he would enter an order directing that the defendant county school board inform the court concerning progress to or before Jan. 1, 1959.

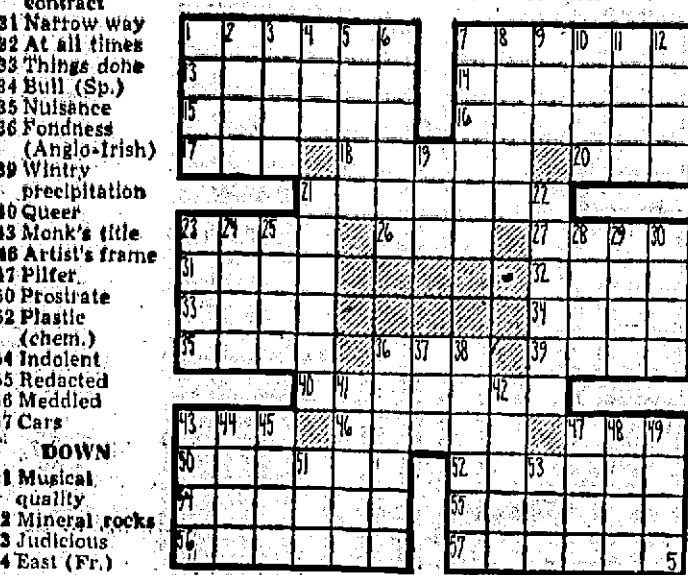

The Prince Edward school segregation case was one of the five original cases on which the U. S. Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation decision was based. Judge Hutcheson's action today is the result of a higher court's order to him to set a specific date for compliance with the Supreme Court decision.

Williams Is Expected to Be Nominated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two possibilities for the 1960 Democratic presidential race are expected to clear their local political hurdles in good style today as four states hold primary elections.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri are strong favorites to gain nomination in primaries in their states. Williams, the onetime boy wonder of Michigan politics, is seeking an unprecedented sixth term.

Other primaries are being held in West Virginia and Kansas. In all, voters in the four states will name candidates for 1 Senate seat, 41 House seats and 2 governorships.

Williams, who has done little campaigning, is opposed by William L. Johnson, a radio station operator at Lawrence. Another term at the statehouse would put Williams in a good position to bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 if he chooses.

Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, has nominal opposition from former Republican Lamar W. Day of Kansas City and Lawrence L. Hastings of Arizona, a retired Veterans Administration employee. Symington, a duckhunter at the 1956 Democratic convention, is again being mentioned as a possible nominee for 1960.

Missouri Republicans will pick their candidate to oppose Symington from a group of four. Eleven House seats are up for nomination in the state.

The critters sought shelter there from heavy downtown traffic after escaping from a cattle truck. The room only suffered minor damage from the invasion, but it took 15 men two hours to oust the cows. Said pastor Metel Patterson, "Maybe I'll have to change the church's 'open door' policy."

It has a built-in ejection system to make it fully recoverable from the water after launch. It is parachuted to earth on completion of each target mission. Hundreds of the Firebees, developed by Ryan Aeronautical, are now being used by the U.S. Army and Navy to test the accuracy and efficiency of America's air-to-air and ground-to-air missile systems.

THE STORY: With neither motive nor suspect established in the brutal murder of Bruce Adams, 19, Lieutenant Morrison decides to talk to the teachers of the youth. From all he has been able to learn from neighbors, Bruce was a model child.

Chapter VIII
Captain Harris sat behind his desk, looking more like a well-fed businessman than a police captain. He was a rather fat, bald man, with a fringe of white hair bordering his pink scalp. More than one criminal had been misled by his bland, trusting appearance, only to discover too late it veiled a shrewd quick mind.

"Sit down, Lieutenant. You look discouraged."

Harris shuffled through the papers on his desk while Morrison sat down.

"There isn't much to report. As of now, about all we can do is dig up the life and shoe prints. As for the boy, the people we've talked to can't seem to remember what he looked like, much less have worked up any animosity toward him."

"You've talked to all the people that might be involved?"

"I guess it's because the people are so ordinary. They're the kind Lucy and I will have for neighbors. Average income, average homes, good reputations, yet underneath they're as vicious and greedy for their own way as any grifter I ever met."

Captain Harris pulled a cigar from the humidor on his desk and cut the end from it.

"There's just one more thing. If you think your delicate feelings can stand it."

"I'll try to bear up. What's the problem?"

"Early this morning, the Adams family started receiving threats against their other boy, extortion. They pay - up - or - else sort of thing. His undoubtedly a crank, but keep your eyes open."

Morrison sighed heavily. "Everyone wants to get into the act."

"Yes," the Captain agreed, "a murder brings out some oddballs. There have been two confessions so far. One had spent the night in the drunk tank, and the other one was at the Good Friends Mission."

"Well, I'll keep in touch," and with that Morrison walked out into the busy office and was hailed immediately by the officer on the phones.

"Trouble in Parkdale," the young man said as he searched through his notes. "Mrs. Taylor has reported three phone calls, where there was no one on the line. I checked with the telephone company, and they have reports of trouble around there. The wind last night got some wires. I told her that, but she still wanted police protection. I notified the patrol car and they went to talk to her, but I haven't heard from them yet."

"A Mrs. Bergerson called to say they found her son's dog dead. She doesn't know what happened to the dog, but she said her son was so upset she felt she should report it."

"No panics stolen from the clothesline?" Morrison asked dryly.

"No sir," the young man answered seriously. "Just what I told you."

The lieutenant got his hat and went down to the basement garage.

Senjes went to sign for the car, Morrison got in, and they were on their way back to Parkdale. It was about 10 minutes before they pulled to a stop, in front of the Bergersons'.

"I'll see Mrs. Bergerson first, then I'll call on the Jensen woman. I might as well talk to the Cornwells as long as we're here. Keep your eyes open if it

Rapid Pace of American Life Is Easy Distraction for Any Creative Writer Today

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What is the main problem of a creative writer in this country?

"It's the pace of American life itself," said Budd Schulberg. "It's so easy to get distracted. Too many things going on. Too many phones ringing. You have to find a place where you can dig in and be alone."

Budd, a strongly built, gregarious fellow with a face like a friendly grizzly bear, has a place of retreat. It's a small beach shack at Sarasota, Fla.

But he has had no time for privacy since he and his brother, Stuart, teamed up as movie producers, following the family tradition established by their noted father, B. P. Schulberg, a Hollywood picture pioneer.

Their first venture is the untold story of the renegade plume hunters in Florida's watery frontier wilderness. They plan next year to make a film on the capture of the Remagen Bridge across the Rhine in World War II.

"But I want to keep on writing," said Budd, who is currently working on a Broadway production of one of his earlier novels, "The Disenchanted."

Budd is a writer who never has known real hunger himself, although he has written often about people who are hungry for something—whether it be for food, power or love.

He sold a couple of short stories for $50 each while still a student at Dartmouth. After graduation he clicked with the slick paper magazines, worked on a dozen film scripts, then hit big with his first novel, "What Makes Sammy Run."

The film version of a later novel, "On the Waterfront," won an Academy Award.

Schulberg, a man with a vast appetite for living, likes to work hard and play hard. His prodigious researches have made him acquainted with enough rogues and rascals, caught and uncaught, to overflow Sing Sing. He goes for the off-beat character, whether the guy's a prisoner, prince or prelate.

"Sometimes I don't know whether the research I do is really work," he said, "or a form of procrastination—to delay the actual writing."

"But I'm pretty fast once I start writing. I write my first draft in pencil on one of those long yellow legal pads. In fact I'm blocked without one—can't write until I do find one."

Budd makes corrections in his second draft, which he turns out on the typewriter. Then makes interlinear changes in it before having his third and final draft typed.

He turns out about 5,000 words a week, when things are going well, but it's hard to keep up that average, he says.

Budd feels the biggest price any writer has to pay is failure because of refusal to compromise his material.

"But you have to be ready to fail rather than compromise," he said, "although the temptation to compromise is stronger than ever."

"But the most successful writers have become successful by trying to please themselves rather than the public. The public responds in the long run to the writer who stays true to himself."

Here is his advice to a beginning writer:

"Love or hate something. Learn as much as you can and crystallize your own attitudes—so you won't imitate anybody else."

"Then take the thing you know the best and feel strongest about, and write it in your own way. If you don't feel strongly about anything, you probably won't be able to write well about it."

There were less than half a billion people on earth when Magellan circumnavigated the globe, 300 years ago. Today there are nearly 3 billion people.

won't interfere with your sleep." Senjes nodded.

Violence in Arkansas Takes 3 Lives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three persons died violently in Arkansas yesterday through suffocation, drowning and accidental electrocution.

Arnold O. Corbin, 29, of Alma was electrocuted while using a power saw to construct a fence at his home.

The victim and his father, O. Corbin of Fort Smith, were working together. The father said Arnold Corbin was cutting a board when the saw touched barbed wire on the partly finished fence, knocking the younger man to the ground.

He was dead on arrival at a Van Buren hospital.

Survivors include the victim's widow, his parents and several brothers and sisters.

Jerry Glover, 14, Negro, of Man holla, drowned in a stock pond at Knoxville near his home town.

Officers said Glover and two companions were fishing when Glover waded away from shore and apparently stepped into a hole.

The body was recovered.

Elfreda Corine Carroll, Negro, 3-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carroll, was found dead in her bed at North Little Rock.

The father told police he found the child with her head stuck in a hole in the mattress. Authorities said death apparently resulted from suffocation.

We wish to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the many kindnesses shown to us during our recent bereavement.
